4TH ELTRIA CONFERENCE, 2024

CRITICAL CONVERSATIONS: ALIGNING RESEARCH AND PRACTICE IN ELT

This two-day event on the 10-11th of May brings the ELT practice and research communities together to promote enquiry and mutually beneficial collaboration. We hope to achieve a common aim: demystifying research and encouraging projects with clear practical grounding and relevance in the classroom.

To this end, the conference offers opportunities to share research findings of interest to practising teachers, both through interactive workshops and talks which summarise research in an accessible format.

ELTRIA presentations encourage reflection and provoke thought, and the social format of the conference allows attendees to connect and develop the 'critical conversations' which bring the research and practice communities together.

This event is an ideal opportunity to experience the beautiful city of Barcelona in the spring. It also combines conveniently with the PLL5 (International Association of Psychology in Language Learning) conference taking place in Madrid the following week (16-18th May, 2024)

Organised by the EIM (School of Modern Languages) of the University of Barcelona.

ELTRIA Plenary Speakers 2024

Dr Richard Pinner

Richard S. Pinner (PhD, University of Warwick) has almost 20 years of experience as a language teacher and teacher trainer, and is the author of three research monographs, as well as articles in journals such as TESOL Quarterly, ELTJ, English Today and Language Teaching Research. His research interests include the areas of authenticity and motivation in ELT. He recently co-edited, with Richard Sampson, a special edition of the Journal for the Psychology of Language Learning, focusing on Intuition and Practitioner Research. His website is www.uniliterate.com.

Dr Jackie Robbins

Jackie Robbins, PhD, is a lecturer at the Universitat Oberta de Catalunya where she coordinates several EFL courses. She is a member of the European Centre for Modern Languages ICT-REV project team which supports language teaching and learning in Europe. Her research interests include online language learning, learner engagement and special needs language learners in online contexts.

Dr Richard Sampson

Richard J Sampson (PhD, Griffith University) has been working in the Japanese education context for over 20 years. He is a Professor at Chuo University, teaching courses in English communication and language learning psychology. His research focuses on qualitative issues of motivation, emotions, and identity. He uses action research to explore contextualized experiences of classroom language learning from the perspectives of students.

Prof. Richard Smith

Professor Richard Smith (University of Warwick, UK, <http://www.warwick.ac.uk/richardcsmith>) researches the history of language teaching and is known for his original ideas on 'Exploratory Action Research' and teacher-research mentoring. He is former coordinator of IATEFL's Research SIG, founder of the International Festival of Teacher-Research and originator of the Teachers Research! conferences.
